

JOURNOCODE Nerd Word Puzzle

Dear data-driven person,

We wish you lots of fun with this crossword puzzle.
If you get stuck, check out journocode.com/dictionary.
You might find some helpful tips. Remember:
It's not cheating if you still learn something.

Best,

The Squirrels

Across

- 3. RStudio is an ... for the programming language R
- 4. file format for tabular data in which cells are separated by commas
- 6. websites that change their layout depending on the screen size
- 7. sequence of actions used to solve problems
- 8. measure of statistical certainty that is used in hypothesis testing
- 11. converting address data into coordinates
- 13. GitHub but different
- 14. language used to build the basic structure of a website.

Down

- 1. the value exactly in the middle of a sorted row of values
- 2. automatically extracting data from the Internet
- 5. the most commonly known mean
- 7. way of communication between a program and a third-party service
- 9. name of a common statistical distribution
- 10. a map with areas colored depending on a data variable
- 12. type of search that matches patterns approximately rather than exactly